TE ARAI HONORS BOARD.

THE UNVEILING CEREMONY

The unveiling ceremony of the War Honors Board erected in a large class room of the Te Arai school was conducted yesterday afternoon before the school pupils and a good attendance of adults.

The board is a handsome structure, designed and made by Mr. W. F. Bodley, of Auckland, and presented to the school by the Manutuke Women's National Reserve. The timber used is polished rimu, and the design is that of a scroll supported by an artistic pillar on each side, the whole supporting a canopy. The structure is 6ft by 5ft 6in in dimensions, and contains the names of 70 old schoolboys who answered the call, and also 10 of them who paid the supreme sacrifice. The structure has been put in the class room temporarily, and will later be erected in the corridor when certain contemplated alterations to the school building have been carried out. Under the canopy are inscribed the words "Manutuke District Roll of Honor."

At the top of the scroll is the design of the New Zealand Ensign and the Union Jack, crossed, with "1914 to 1919" inscribed on each side. Then follows the names of those who served in the war, above the words "Lest We Forget." At the foot of each pillar are the words, "For King and Empire." The fact of the donation of the board to the school by the National Reserve was recorded also. The names of the men who enlisted are as follows: Mohi Akurangi, A. F. Barber, J. A. Baty (M.M. and bar), J. Boyd, H. Black, J. Clark, A. H. Clark, E. M. Catton, W. C. Daulton, A. R. Catton, F. H. Daulton, A. J. Finucane, R. F. Daulton, H. S. Gibson, H. J. Daulton, J. A. Gibson, G.
